Reds Test 'New' Type Atom Bombs

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today claimed successful tests of "new type" atomic bombs in recent weeks but said it still wants an international ban on mass destruction weapons.

ROK Betrays General Dean For $5 Gift

SEOUL (AP)—A slightly built, 40-year-old South Korean said today he accepted $5 from the North Korean Communists in August 1950, as payment for helping the Reds capture Maj. Gen. William F. Dean.

The Korean, Han Doo Kyoo, is one of two residents of Crinan, South of Taejon, held here on charges of betraying Dean.

Han said he accepted 30,000 won ($5) from the Reds for his part in the capture of Dean. He added that he "returned" the $5 to a Communist organization.

Dean, former commander of the U. S. 24th Division, was released two weeks ago in Panmunjom after more than three years as a captive. He has been under treatment at Tokyo Army Hospital for dysentery and is scheduled to depart for the U. S. Monday.

Han and Choe Chong Bong, 24, were arrested by South Korean national police two days after Dean was released.

Police charge Han and Choe led Dean into a trap after promising to help him return to Allied lines.

Asked if he was the first Korean Dean met in the Chinan area, Han said, "Yes."

"When was it?"

Without hesitation Han said "Aug. 25, 1950."

Asked what the general said at that time, Han said, "He did not say much. I could not understand the few words he said."

Han claimed he had intended to lead Dean to "a hotel." But, he said, a group of Communist "home guards" caught the general on the way.

Police said Choe also received a reward from the Reds.

54 Violations Logged In Chase

BALTIMORE (AP)—William Brady, 42-year-old painter who was charged with a record total of 54 traffic violations after a wild chase through northeast Baltimore last week, yesterday was sentenced to 13 months in prison and fined $100.

Magistrate A. Risley Ennor imposed the penalties after hearing a description of the chase, in which a horse was driven by Brady finally careened into a house fence and police car.

Meanderings By Wash Fayette

Lightning plays some peculiar pranks sometimes, but I saw a new demonstration of what lightning will do a few nights ago.

An unusually heavy storm was raging to the north, probably 25 miles distant; frequent flashes of lightning ripped from the low-hanging clouds to the earth scores of times.

The unusual feature was the fact that I saw probably a half dozen streaks of lightning which were followed in quick succession by other streaks apparently in the same place as the first.

In one instance the quick succession of streaks of lightning were fully a half dozen, all extending from sky to earth and being of almost equal brilliancy, and apparently striking the same spot.

Just what happened where these series of bolts struck, I do not know, but the damage must have been heavy if they struck buildings.

Those flashes of lightning remind me that one night a number of years ago I saw a streak of lightning pass from west to east in a cloud which extended west of Hillsboro to several miles east of Chillicothe; that streak of lightning was fully 50 miles in length.

And that again reminds me that comparatively few new houses are equipped with lightning rods. The first lightning rods were placed on a building in Philadelphia in July, 1752, by none other than that master craftsman, Ben Franklin.

His installation of the lightning rods followed quickly his discovery made with his famous kite experiment in June, 1752.

In this part of the United States there are 40 to 50 days each year when lightning occurs. Few thunderstorms occur in California, but in Florida lightning occurs 70 to 90 days each year.

Experts warn that every outside radio and television aerial should have a lightning arrester.

In Washington, a spokesman for the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission said the Russian announcement "merely confirms" the AEC's statement Aug. 31 that a fission atomic explosion of about the same power as recent U. S. tests in Nevada had taken place Aug. 23 in Russia. The previous statement added the explosion "would appear to be part of a series."

Observers in Washington concluded that the Soviet explosion apparently did not involve the thermonuclear reactions of a hydrogen bomb.

Moscow's announcement stirred speculation at United Nations headquarters in New York that it was timed to pave the way for new Soviet disarmament proposals to the U. N. Assembly, which has just opened its eighth annual session in New York. These were not expected to differ materially, however, from previous Russian disarmament offers the United Nations has repeatedly rejected.

The Soviet statement said that although the Soviet Union "is able to give attention to the production of atomic weapons," it would pursue a policy of attempting to reach agreement with other nations on arms cuts and the prohibition of mass destruction weapons under strict international control.

Asserting that Russia considers putting atomic energy to peaceful uses its most important task, the statement said the Soviets are "carrying out the task of employing atomic energy for industrial purposes."

The AEC spokesman in Washington indicated the commission had found nothing additional of merit. At that time, the AEC said it would make no further announcement about Russian tests "unless intelligence indicates information of greater interest."

Aussie Leader Calls On U. N. To Keep Korean Peace Setup

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Australian Foreign Minister R. G. Casey called on the U. N. General Assembly today to stand firm on its previous decision barring neutral countries from the Korean peace conference.

Casey said his own government would have preferred a different decision, but has now accepted the Assembly's action and believed the Communists should do likewise.

"We believe the United Nations for its part has taken a proper decision concerning the political conference," he said, "and that the Communist Chinese and North Koreans should be so advised."

Casey has taken a leading part during the past few days in private meetings of the 16 countries that fought under the U. N. banner in Korea. His view was understood to be that of the group.

Dulles Urges More Good Will Abroad

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles says more good will and unity in the Far East and Pacific areas could lead to comprehensive mutual security agreements.

Dulles, speaking last night at a dinner honoring Crown Prince Akihito of Japan, said the United States is vitally interested in a collective security organization in the Pacific.

This country has signed individual treaties with Australia and New Zealand (Anzus), Japan, the Philippines, and a tentative pact with South Korea.

Noting that the ANZUS council voted to exclude other Far Eastern nations from their defense organization, Dulles added:

"This does not mean we have abandoned the development of a more comprehensive system of regional security in the Pacific area."

"But before there can be useful development by way of multilateral treaties, there is need for the development, within the Pacific area, of a greater measure of international good will and a greater unity of purpose."

"I trust that these sentiments will soon come in measure sufficient to warrant the development of enlarged mutual security measures."

193 U. S. Cities Are Listed As Probable A-Bomb Targets

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the wake of Russia's H-bomb announcement, the United States government has tagged 193 American cities as probable targets of atomic attack, 70 of them as "critical."

But the list "does not purport to include all possible targets," the Federal Civil Defense Administration said in issuing it last night.

"For security reasons," it added, "certain targets that have national or military significance, including the atomic energy installations, have not been listed."

Nine Ohio cities are on the list of critical target areas. They are Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Steubenville and Youngstown.

Other probable target areas in Ohio are Hamilton, Middletown, Lima, Lorain, Elyria and Springfield.

It is presumed that Pike County also would be considered a critical area since it is the home of a new A-plant.

It was the first disclosure of areas officially designated as probable A-bomb targets. It supersedes a list adopted in 1952, sent to governors and local civil defense directors but never made public. The 1952 list was ordered destroyed.

Issuance of the new list came six weeks after Russia claimed mastery of the dread hydrogen bomb and two days after municipal legal officers reported some cities are thinking about abandoning civil defense programs unless more federal aid is forthcoming.

A SPOKESMAN for the defense agency said Director Val Peterson felt people might be stirred into more civil defense activity if they knew their city had been labeled a probable target.

All state capitals are named, but not as critical targets unless industrially important. Other cities having 50,000 population or more are classed in the non-critical group.

The 70 critical targets, embracing a population of 67,750,982, are population centers having at least 40,000 manufacturing workers and at least one city with a population of 50,000. Washington, D. C., was included because it is the nation's capital.

The defense agency called for the entire country, inside and outside of the listed target areas, to mobilize for civil defense. No one area could cope alone with a successful attack, it said.

All possible targets for biological or chemical attack were not included, it said, because no part of the country is safe from this kind of warfare.

The Allies Friday delivered the largest group so far—1,000 North Koreans and 1,400 Chinese—and Indian officers ordered 500 more troops flown to Korea to help guard the seething, buffer zone compounds. The Indians originally expected to use about 5,000 guards.

The morning delivery of North Koreans was so smooth it took less than half the time allotted and an Indian spokesman termed it "one of the good lots." It was in sharp contrast to the violent outbreaks that marked previous deliveries.

Only about 2,700 North Koreans remain in Allied camps. About 5,100 North Koreans already are in the buffer zone camps where reluctant prisoners of both sides will choose their future.

Senator Bridges Predicts America Will Return To Its Old 'Gold Standard'

Only Few U. N. POWs Remain, Red Claims

COMMUNIST Reporter Sheds No Light On Huge 'Missing' List

MUNSAN (AP)—A Red correspondent said today the only Allied war prisoners still in Red hands are "the handful which won't go back." The Communists said later 10 or more of those have changed their minds and will be returned tonight.

Some could be Americans, but the Reds did not give any nationalities.

The Communists have said previously they were holding about 300 South Koreans and about 20 non-Koreans who had refused to return home. Some Americans were believed to be among the score of non-Koreans.

The Reds have given no official answer to an Allied demand for an accounting of what happened to about 3,400 Allied troops (more than 900 of them Americans) whom the U. N. says were once known to be captives.

COMMUNIST Correspondent Wilfred Burchett of the Paris l'Huma-ne, told newsmen in Panmunjom the Reds are checking the list carefully. But, he said, "There is nobody being held except a handful which won't go back."

Burchett said a number of names on the list are due "to faulty book-keeping."

The Red newsmen, who frequently reflect official opinion, said he made "an exhaustive search" for Capt. James A. Van Fleet Jr., son of the former 8th Army commander.

But he said the young pilot is not a prisoner and never was. He indicated Van Fleet died in the crash of his B26 in April 1952.

He gave no numbers of nationalities other than to say one of the men was Capt. Harold Fischer Jr. of Sea City, Iowa, one of America's double jet aces.

An Allied spokesman said names of the 10 or more prisoners returning at 9 p. m. today (EST) would be released soon after they are freed. He said they will have their choice of whether to be interviewed.

Unemployment Office Here Not To Be Closed

Reports recently circulated that the Washington C. H. unemployment office at 211 East Market Street, officially known as the Fayette County office of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, would be closed September 30 along with a number of other such offices in some counties of the state, is unfounded, according to reliable information secured by the Record-Herald unofficially today.

It is known that among the offices probably definitely to be closed are the ones at London, Wilmington, Hillsboro, Delaware, Greenville, Tiffin, Troy, Barberton, Kent and Niles. Some others may be added to this list.

The reason for this action is reported to be a part of the economy move of Congress which has

Siamese Twins Survival Given Good Chance

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Chances of surviving improved steadily today for Louisiana's Siamese twins—separated yesterday in a history-making operation.

Hospital officials said the twin daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashington Mouton of Lafayette "still continue to do well."

Dr. L. L. Weismiller, hospital director, said, "The longer they continue to do well, the better their chances are. And it looks encouraging."

The 8-week-old girls, Carolyn Anne and Catherine Anne, were joined near the base of the spine. Hospital spokesmen say as far as they can determine both twins have never before survived such an operation.

The babies will regain their strength for several days before doctors examine to determine what further surgery is needed.

The soft-spoken 37-year-old father said after the operation, "God Almighty has been very generous so that we could have our little girls perfectly normal."

Mouton and his attractive 33-year-old wife stayed in a private room during the operation with a Bible in their hands.

'Loyal Oath' For Democrats Dying, Belief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell, Democrat of Georgia, said today he does not expect the "loyalty oath" to be a serious issue at his party's 1956 convention.

Any attempt to revive the issue then would only alienate the South, Russell said, and he added that in the light of last year's election results it was apparent that the party will need the South to win the next presidential election. President Eisenhower last year carried the traditionally Democratic states of Florida, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Russell contended that the loyalty pledge was used at the 1952 convention in an attempt to make "a whipping boy" of the South by delegates who were interested in "personal aggrandizement" and who thought the Democrats could win without the Southern states.

The senator did not call any named. The loyalty pledge was urged by "young Turks" of the party and stirred up a roaring convention fight that brought a walk-out of some Southern delegates.

In the end, however, it was compromised to require only that delegates use every honorable means to get the convention nominees on the ballot in their states under the Democratic label.

'Honest Dollar' Is Back Now, Solon Believes

New Englander's Bill To Be Labeled With 1954 Date, He Reveals

NEW CASTLE, N. H. (AP)—Sen. Styles Bridges, Republican from New Hampshire and influential spokesman in the U. S. Senate, predicted today that America soon will return to the gold standard in its monetary transactions.

Bridges made his statement after declaring that thanks to President Dwight Eisenhower's administration policies "the honest dollar has come into its own."

Along with predicting America's return to the gold standard, Bridges said he expects "a new era of prosperity in New England and throughout the nation."

There was no immediate comment on Bridges' gold standard prediction from either the summer White House in Denver or from monetary officials in Washington.

Speaking before the 112th quarterly meeting of the New England Council Bridges said: "The return to the honest dollar can only result in additional consumption, investment and savings."

"IT SEEMS TO ME that we have commenced that return and that the effects will be reflected in a stimulation of all our consumer services."

Bridges, who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, criticized what he called the unsound money policy of the New Deal administration and said it brought hardship and suffering through inflation to millions of Americans.

He announced he has introduced a bill, which he termed the "Gold Redemption Act of 1954," which will restore this country to the gold standard.

He said the bill "will have the effect of curbing inflation and restoring sound money, as pledged by the Republican platform of 1952."

"It is essential, in my judgment, that a public confidence in the currency of this nation be encouraged if we are to realize our full economic strength. Such confidence can be had, if we fulfill our obligation to American citizens to prevent further depreciation of the purchase value of their money."

The U. S. went "off the gold standard" in 1933 when Congress authorized the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt to outlaw the gold-payment clause in all monies.

THE ACT GAVE the President virtual dictatorial power over all forms of money. Later the government started buying up domestic and foreign gold at above the market price. America set the price at about $35 an ounce and it has held there since.

Since then, America has done its trading in silver and paper certificates, backed by both silver and gold reserves.

In reviewing the steps taken by the present administration to "return the nation to a stable economy," the senator said "a good start has been made towards that goal," but that "six months is a short time indeed to undo the tragic mismanagement of 20 years."

He said his committee had reduced the budget by "something in excess of 14 billion dollars under the budget requests conceived by the prior administration."

Athletic Board Of High School Plans for Year

Band Is To Share
Football Receipts;
$3,780 Bills Paid

There was a good chance today that financial worries of the Washington C. H. High School band would be considerably fewer in the future.

For one thing, a group of band boosters is on the verge of raising $6,000 to outfit it with new uniforms in this week's fund campaign.

For another, the Athletic Board of the high school decided at its meeting Thursday afternoon after school that at least for this year, the band would be given 10 percent of the gross football receipts, less taxes.

The reasoning behind the Athletic Board's action was that the band's pre-game and half-time performances are very much a part of the overall sports spectacle that has been packing the stands at Gardner Park for several years.

The board meeting started at 4 P. M. and continued through without interruption until 7:30 P. M.

E. WAYNE TITUS, the high school principal, presided as the temporary chairman, and Arthur Engle served as the temporary secretary because new officers will not be elected until the next meeting.

Other members of the board are John Sagar and A. E. Weatherly of the school board, Fred Ross, the clerk-treasurer, and the five coaches, Harry Townsend, Dennis Bell, William Buck, Mike Beard and Denzil Leggett. All of them were at the meeting.

Plans approved for purchasing a public address system for Gardner Park were knocked out when it was found that one would cost around $800. At the board's last regular meeting on June 10, it had authorized $200 for the purchase of a PA system, so when the $800 estimate was reported at this meeting, the earlier action was rescinded.

It was agreed to rent the system again this year from Bud Mills for the fall games.

Last July 15, at a special meeting, the board approved the lease of a field across the D T & I Railroad for practice and parking during games here from Miss Grace McHenry for three years at $300 a year.

The balance in the athletic fund on June 10 was reported as $5,308.

RECEIPTS between that time and Sept. 17 (when the meeting was held) amounted to $3,587, virtually all of which came from the advanced sale of football tickets.

Out of this, however, bills totalling $786 were approved for payment. They were for insurance for the members of the squad, rental of the practice field and labor to get it in shape for use.

After the money for those bills had been deducted, there was a balance of $8,109 in the athletic fund, including the $2,000 set aside at the June 10 meeting for a building fund. This fund, it was agreed should be built up for making improvements and expansions at the football park, but no specific projects were mentioned.

The board also approved for payment of other bills totalling $2,993. They were: $2,541 for football equipment, cleaning and reconditioning the uniforms, etc. $296, medical care $12, tickets $81, supplies for the field $28 and lights $35.

After all bills but one on the file had been approved there was a balance of $5,116 in the athletic fund.

THE BOARD agreed that the boys on the football squad who had taken out accident insurance would be reimbursed the $125 a year premium. Insurance is being offered, but it does not cover accidents in football.

In rapid fire order, and with a minimum of discussion, the board approved a plan for the American Legion to handle the crowds and traffic at home football games for $100. That will include parking in the east end of the practice field, Circle Avenue in front of the park, the board felt, should be closed to traffic on game night as it has been in the past.

It also approved chartered bus transportation for the team to the four out-of-town games for $284 and of serving meals to the squad before those games at Anderson's Drive-In Restaurant.

Permission was granted for the Reserve and Junior football squads to use the Varsity field at Gardner Park for their games (not practice) and for the FFA and Y-teen groups to handle the concessions on the same basis as last year.

He said: "The trip will convey the policy of the administration to give equal emphasis to the Far East, southeast Asia and Europe—in fact, to all areas and all peoples."

Farmers Set For Annual Plow Tests

AUGUSTA, Wis. (AP)—Midwest farm folk by the thousands streamed into this small Wisconsin community today to see the biggest agricultural show of the year.

They gathered on the 800 acres that make up the Thompson Creek watershed to learn how best to fight corrosive effects of the weather, to see state and national plowing matches and to view a two million dollar exhibit of farm machinery.

The two-day show is called the National Soil Conservation Field Days and Plowing Matches.

On the first day's schedule today were the Wisconsin plowing matches; demonstrations of stream bank tilting, waterways, terracing, improvement and channel changing and programs for rural women stressing modern home-making ideas. The national level and contour plowing champions will be decided tomorrow. The final event on the program is a major address by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Hundreds of tents housing the machinery exhibits and refreshment stands dotted the area. The crowd is expected to reach 50,000 tomorrow. Forty state traffic patrolmen and 20 game wardens will be on hand to keep order.

Irrigation experts poured water at the rate of 800 gallons on a minute for several hours yesterday on the fields where the state level plowing event was to be held to soften the parched land. Sites for the state contour and the national matches have a good stand of feed grass and are in better shape for plowing.

The two national champions crowned at Kasson, Minn., last year will defend their titles. They are Graeme Stewart, Plainfield, Ill., the level land winner, and Martin Cummins, Lewiston, Ohio, the contour king.

It is also claimed they will "make you feel good and look better and nicer."

Army Colonel Held In Thefts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Col. Jack D. Burnett, an administrative officer at Walter Reed Hospital, was arrested yesterday and charged with stealing a food freezer, two air conditioning units and a barbecue grill from Fort Knox, Ky.

The 36-year-old Middletown, Ohio colonel is accused by the FBI of placing the goods in his Silver Springs, Md., home and with lying about them.

Burnett was executive officer of the Army Medical Research Laboratory at Fort Knox from 1951 until last July.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD."

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twice now within a month—and both times when the United Nations was in session, considering the Korean peace conference—the Russians have announced new atomic explosions.

This might have been coincidence. But, since the Russians know the value of psychological shock and could pick any day for their announcements, they can be assumed to have deliberately picked their time:

1. Perhaps to frighten the non-Communist U.N. members, when they were all together in New York, with news of Russia's developing ability to make atomic war. One of the announcements involved hydrogen bomb making.

2. Through fear, to make these U.N. members generally less willing to buck Russia and particularly Russia's idea of how the Korean peace conference should be held and who should take part.

The Eisenhower administration, although taking due note of Russia's hydrogen progress, apparently hasn't been softened a little bit in its hard attitude toward Russia.

Yesterday at the U. N., just a few hours before Russia's latest atomic announcement, Secretary of State Dulles lashed into Moscow with a major foreign policy speech that was hardly more than a repetition of a speech made five months ago before there was any news of Russia's hydrogen progress.

On Aug. 17, the U.N. General Assembly met in special session to choose its representatives to the Korean peace conference, with the United States insisting that if Russia was permitted at the peace conference it would have to be as a guest of the Communists, not on the U.N. side.

On Aug. 19, in the midst of the U.N. argument, Moscow announced it had achieved a hydrogen explosion.

The United States Atomic Energy Commission immediately confirmed the Russian explosion with the statement it had occurred Aug. 12. Moscow did not explain why it waited from Aug. 12 to Aug. 19 to make the news known.

On Aug. 23 the Russians had more atomic explosions. This was made known on Aug. 31 by the Atomic Energy Commission. Russia said nothing.

On Sept. 14, last Monday, the U.N. General Assembly, which had ended its special session in late August, came back into regular session. Once more it tangled over the Korean peace conference, with the Communists demanding:

That the Assembly reverse what it did in August—it upheld the United States position then—and let neutral nations and Russia sit in on the peace conference.

On Sept. 18, last night, Moscow announced more atomic explosions, probably the ones which the AEC said on Aug. 31 had occurred on Aug. 23. Moscow did not claim these latest explosions were of the hydrogen kind.

Five months ago, on April 16, Eisenhower, speaking for a government which had become exasperated with hearing Moscow talk of peace which it was blocking, expressed this country's policy on working out peace with Russia.

What he said, if summarized in diplomatic language, would be this: put up or shut up.

He phrased it more politely. He said this country would take Russian peace talk seriously when Moscow showed it wanted peace by giving proof, in deeds.

He gave a list of deeds he said would show Russian good faith: a

Any Objection To Mr. Outhouse?

FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—Kenneth M. Outhouse thinks the name of Dean would be "more appropriate, genteel and elegant."

Revenuer Raids Hike Booze Price

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Revenuers are making good run on stills in the lush moonshine liquor district of Logan, Lincoln and Mingo Counties. But their activities are forcing higher prices.

William R. Harvey, chief investigator here for the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit, says the going price Korean armistice and peace conference; unification of Germany; a peace treaty for Austria; and others.

Since April the Communists have met only one of Eisenhower's terms: they agreed to an armistice in Korea. But at this moment it is uncertain whether they will permit even the next step: a Korean peace conference.

Yesterday, in his speech to the U.N., restating what Eisenhower had said in April, Dulles simply told the Russians that five months have not softened the American attitude toward Moscow.

He talked for 37 minutes. What he said could be boiled down to five words: put up or shut up.

for moonshine has climbed to $16 a gallon—roughly the price of some legal brands.

He thinks it's because his agents have been knocking off so many stills lately. They destroyed five in the last 30 days.

City officials have agreed a parking ticket will be quashed if the holder gives a pint of blood when the Red Cross bloodmobile visits next Monday.

Attorney Battles To Save Old Home

HAMILTON (AP)—Eryle Jellison, Hamilton attorney, filed suit in common pleas court yesterday to halt the proposed razing of the one time home of former Gov. James E. Campbell.

City officials have demanded the house, once a Hamilton show place, be torn down because of its dilapidated condition.

A Mother's Complaint About Some TV Films

Within the last week we heard a Washington C. H. mother complaining rather bitterly about some of the stories, available to the whole family, produced on television.

She asserted that she agreed with what some television columnists and critics were saying, which was to the effect that the deluge of psychopathic crime films being shown was offering a threat of very bad influence on many youngsters.

There can be little doubt that the average small, or even teen-age, youngster, who sits in front of the television screen in the home, seeking entertainment, does see a lot of queer characters in many queer dramas.

If such boys and girls were permitted to judge the nature of their community, their state or their country, or the world for that matter, by what he or she sees on many of the television screen dramas, such a youngster probably would get the impression that about half our population would qualify under the category of alcoholics, "pushers" of illegal drugs or promoters of some other vice equally appalling, and that immediate need of psychotherapy is necessary.

One explanation has been offered that the reason for this situation is that so many TV plays are produced in centers of fast-moving life which characterizes a big percentage of the show business.

Most people feel safer about this problem than the mother mentioned above, because they believe that the average youngster lives in different surroundings and circumstances and has the intelligence to disregard those films which show some vicious aspects.

Whether this is true is a question. However it is generally thought true that young people, especially those living in substantial rural and other localities, are interested enough and full of life enough to enjoy clean and typically American entertainment. However, the sponsors of TV shows will find that the public believes that those who pay for such productions have the final responsibility and that such sponsors should exert sufficient pressure to raise the standards of all their presentations to an acceptable level.

Checking for Taxes

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue Coleman Andrews, is directing an experimental check on federal tax collections in four different states, including Ohio. It is being found that for one reason or another many Americans have failed to file proper federal tax returns, or to pay the tax due thereon.

The greatest dereliction discovered was in the failure of many taxpayers to file their Estimated Income Tax returns, and make payment thereon. It is believed that if the plan of interrogating citizens as to their federal tax status is spread over the entire country, about $2 billion in additional tax revenue can be obtained.

Gold Reserve Drop

In the first six months of 1953, United States gold reserves at Ft. Knox dropped $1.2 billion, or from $23.5 billion to $22.3 billion. During the same period Britain's gold reserve has been increased by $505 million, Western Germany's by $118 million, Mexico's by $108 million, Canada's by $51 million, and various international agencies by $238 million.

Cinemascope--The Answer To TV? By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood came to Broadway this week in a bold $75 million bid against television.

The film industry unveiled one of its newest processes—Cinemascope—in a star-studded world premiere of "The Robe."

It was as glamorous as the opening of the Metropolitan Opera season, and added several more million candlepower of glitter to the Great White Way. It was a black tie and mink jacket event, and the diamonds on the lady guests were outshone only by giant searchlights stabbed a cloudy Manhattan sky.

The 6,500 invited guests, who had to push their way through some 6,000 uninvited spectators jammed outside, included Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, Gen. James Van Fleet, and a local restaurant owner called Toos Shor.

Also invited were churchmen, entertainment celebrities such as Milton Berle (and him in television) and Shirley Booth and Mary Martin. So were a few scattered millionaires such as Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. And diplomats such as Sir Percy Spender, Australian ambassador. And more movie moguls than you could sell a script to at the moment.

It was a show within a show, a real life drama surrounded a filmed one.

Few autograph collectors noticed a small shy elderly Frenchman with a beard who smiled dazedly as his wife gave him a congratulatory peck on the cheek. This was Prof. Henri Chretien, who invented Cinemascope.

Nor did they pay much attention to a big breezy fellow near the professor. This was Spyros Skouras, president of Twentieth Century-Fox, who once shined shoes as a boy immigrant from Greece and now leads a group of film giants who hope Cinemascope will prove the movie industry's best answer to television.

Some scores of serious-faced gentlemen in tuxes also were passed over by the autograph fans. These were the bankers reported to have raised between 75 and 100 million dollars to finance Cinemascope on a national scale.

What is Cinemascope?

Well, the traditional movie screen is roughly the shape of a newspaper page. The screen for the debut of Cinemascope is wider and curved as if you opened a newspaper in the middle and looked at a picture spread across both pages. The curved screen and special wide-angle lenses invented by the French professor are supposed to give the illusion of depth.

"The Robe," based on Lloyd Douglas' best-selling novel, is a Biblical drama of the conversion of the Roman officer in charge of the crucifixion of Christ. It was filmed in technicolor and it cost $4½ million.

Many in the audience appeared uncertain whether the debut of Cinemascope proved anything. They appeared more stunned by the sound effects, the brilliant color, and the vast images on the huge screen than they were moved emotionally by the scenes portrayed.

Just Code of Common Decency By George Sokolsky

Censorship, in this country, is generally regarded with disfavor. The assumption is that the adult mind is capable of deciding for itself what is right and wrong, and that parents are capable of bringing up their own children. Yet, Congress and state legislatures have passed laws against the libelous, the malicious and the salacious.

Early in the history of motion pictures, some producers recognized that there was money in sex. Despite the fact that in the nickelodeon days, as now, motion picture theaters were attended mostly by children, the sex picture developed into the "Vampire" type of presentation.

Various censorship boards came into existence and confused a growing industry. In 1929, Martin Quigley, editor of a number of motion picture publications, proposed a code governing moral implications of motion pictures. This was adopted in 1930. The Production Code Administration was established by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., whose president was Will Hays, to administer the code (now Motion Picture Association of America, Inc.). Joseph I. Breen for many years has been in charge of this work.

The general principles of the code are:

"1. No picture shall be produced which will lower the moral standards of those who see it. Hence the sympathy of a audience shall never be thrown to the side of crime, wrongdoing, evil or sin.

"2. Correct standards of life, subject only to the requirements of drama and entertainment, shall be presented.

"3. Law, natural or human, shall not be ridiculed, nor shall sympathy be created for its violation."

Those who adhere to this code do so voluntarily. The motion picture industry is not so organized that it can force a producer to obey the dicta of the Breen organization.

Since television came into existence, a surprisingly large number of so-called independents have been brought into the industry, whose objective is eventually to sell films to television studios, thus bringing their pictures into our homes.

The Roman Catholic Church has established the Legion of Decency to advise its own members concerning motion pictures. Its classifications appear in parochial papers all over the country, so that the Legion of Decency's judgment of pictures has a widespread influence. It classifies pictures as follows:

"A-I: Morally objectionable for general patronage. These films are considered to contain no material which would be morally dangerous to the average motion picture audience, adults and children alike.

"A-II: Morally objectionable for adults. These are films which in themselves are morally harmless but which, because of subject matter or treatment, require maturity and experience if one is to witness them without danger of moral harm. While no definite age limit can be established for this group, the judgment of parents, pastors and teachers would be helpful in determining the decision in individual cases.

"B: Morally objectionable in part for all. Films in this category are considered to contain elements dangerous to Christian morals or moral standards.

"C: Condemned. Condemned films are considered to be those which because of theme or treatment are what has been described by the Holy Father as "positively bad."

On June 28, Cardinal Spellman ordered that the motion picture "The Moon is Blue" be denounced at all masses as "an occasion of sin." Cardinal Spellman's instructions contained the following sentences:

"The producer refused to make any revision of the film and openly spurns the code of the American motion picture industry. The presentation of this film constitutes an attempt to ignore and override the moral law and to challenge the ideals of morally wholesome standards in public entertainment."

"The Moon is Blue" was produced independently by F. Hugh Herbert and Otto Preminger and is adapted from Herbert's play, which had a successful run in New York. Preminger is a Viennese who had been in Max Reinhardt's theater in that city and who, coming to this country a decade or so ago, has been engaged in stage direction in New York.

This is a test case, not of censorship, but of an industry policing itself. Few pictures are shown which reject the code as a controlling guide. If the producers of "The Moon is Blue" succeed in establishing independence of the code, others will follow the flow of profits and the code, which is now 23 years old, will go out of existence. As the main audience for these productions are children, it could lead to stringent local censorship.

Bridges Fearful Of Defense Setup

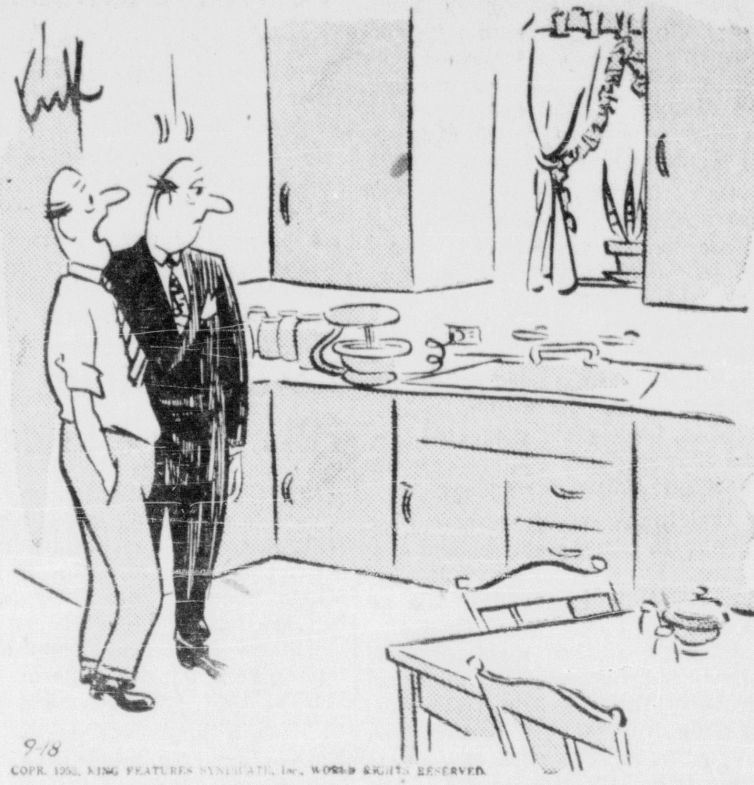

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today that Russia's progress on the H-bomb should bring a thorough reappraisal of U. S. defense planning and spending. But he said this would necessarily blight hope for a tax cut by Congress next year.

Bridges heads the Senate Appropriations Committee, which handles spending bills, and is the senior Republican member of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

He said he hopes to have a talk with President Eisenhower in Boston Monday, when the President arrives to address a Republican meeting there, and that the tax-defense financing problems probably would be discussed then.

The late John D. Rockefeller Sr. who was one of the richest men in the world, started work at $3.50 a week.

Diet and Health Prompt Care Vital When Eyes Crossed

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Ignoring cross-eye in a child in the hope that it will correct itself is sheer neglect. In most cases, the condition persists. If this is permitted to happen, the child will learn to use only one eye, often resulting in permanent loss of vision in the other eye. Therefore, the importance of prompt correction of this defect should be no further emphasized. A child with cross-eye, or strabismus in medical terminology, is seldom too young for treatment to be undertaken. At any rate, he should be examined by an eye physician immediately upon discovery of the condition, no matter what his age.

Two Causes

There are two types of cross-eye. One is due to a paralysis of the muscles, and the other is the non-paralytic type, the type most often seen.

There are three ways of treating cross-eye which the physician may employ. One is by the use of proper glasses in order to correct the seeing error. It has been found that infants, even less than one year of age, can wear spectacles if special precaution is taken with the frames and safety lenses are used. However, glasses are useless in correcting cross-eye unless it is an error in vision that is causing the condition.

As the child ages and gains sufficient mental development to cooperate, orthoptic or exercise treatment with complicated apparatus can be attempted. Various machines are available that can help the child do eye exercises under orthoptic guidance. These, in many instances, improve the cross-eye.

However, in some cases, after spectacles have been worn for a long period of time and extensive exercises or orthoptic training have been tried, it is necessary to resort to surgery. Usually by shortening certain muscles, an equilibrium can be made between the vision of the two eyes and the eye is no longer crossed.

Though one, two, or even three of these methods may prove necessary to correct the eye fault, they should be investigated early for the benefit of one of the child's most important sensory organs.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

G. L. G.: What causes calcium deposits to occur on the fingers, and how can these deposits or lumps be removed?

Answer: The most frequent cause for the condition you describe is arthritis, which results in these little calcium deposits on the tips of the fingers. There is no way known that they can be removed satisfactorily.

Only Voters Took Ike Seriously

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 — Although President Eisenhower was elected on a platform pledging drastic economy and a reduction of the vast federal bureaucracy, he is discovering that nobody but the voters took that promise seriously. And even those who supported him because of this plank now insist that it be applied only to the other fellow or group. He begins to believe that nobody really wants economy in government.

Ike's speeches on the "swollen bureaucracy," built under political pressures during the Roosevelt-Truman regime, always drew heavy applause, as did his other references to alleged waste at Washington. He carried every state where the federal payroll ranked as a major industry, such as New York, California, the farm areas and certain Southern states.

REINSTATED — But his attempts to dispense with the horde of office holders have been blocked by the employees and their political friends on Capitol Hill and back home.

As soon as one of the help gets a dismissal notice, no matter how minor a position he may hold, he runs to his representative and senator. He stirs up both political and business friends in his home town and state. More often than not, he is reinstated.

As a result, the reduction in the working force has been negligible. Less than 100,000 of the federal army of approximately 2½ million people have been discharged under Eisenhower, and at least one-third is accounted for by the failure to fill vacancies. Campaign boasts had led to the belief that the number would be cut down to less than two million within a few months.

PAYROLL UP — Despite the Eisenhower reduction, the federal payroll is now running about $300 million higher than it did a year ago. The increase is due to salary boosts and lump sum payments for accumulated leave to those separated from the service.

As of today, however, it appears doubtful that there will be any substantial reduction in the size or the cost of Uncle Sam's family.

The economy drive will lose more momentum as a result of complaints piling up on Ike's White House desk against the day of his return from his Denver vacation. But this dispute involves some of the most illustrious leaders of the Republican organization instead of blue-collar or white-collar workers, as the members of the lower echelons are described in official statistics.

Prominent politicians, including men from such politically important areas as New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, feel that they have been neglected in the distribution of patronage. And while they do not believe it wise or discreet to drag personalities into their showdown with Ike or Sherman Adams, presidential man-of-all-work, they blame their lack of reward on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Vice-President Nixon of California and the more prominent Southern senators who deserted Stevenson for Eisenhower.

SUCCESSFUL — Dewey has placed men at the head of State and Justice, and in several key posts in Treasury. Nixon has landed Californians in policymaking posts in Interior and other agencies dealing with Western matters. William D. Mitchell, chief of the vastly strategic small business unit, is credited to the VP.

Virginia and Texas have received far more important notice than such GOP strongholds as New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and even Ohio. To the Old Dominion are credited Walter S. Robertson, State's able Korean truce negotiator; T. Coleman Andrews, Internal Revenue Commissioner; and Edward F. Howrey, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Southern Republicans are also griping over the Eisenhower patronage policies.

Instead of rewarding the small GOP faction that has stood by the party in lean and fat years, he is feeding Byrd, Byrnes and Shivers, whose continued loyalty to any Republican save Eisenhower is questionable.

In seeking to satisfy or mollify these complainants, Ike may learn that there is a slip between political promises and fulfillment.

New District Superintendent
To Preach at Grace Church

Dr. Edwin Dickey, the new superintendent of Methodist Churches in the Wilmington district, is to occupy the pulpit of Grace Methodist Church here Sunday morning.

Dr. Edwin Dickey

Dr. Dickey takes the place of Dr. George Parkin, a former pastor of Grace Church. Dr. Parkin, who has retained his many old friends in this community, is now the pastor of the Methodist Church at Salem, near Cincinnati.
Dr. Parkin relinquished the superintendency after completing a regular six-year term in the office.

Dr. Dickey has not announce d the topic of the sermon he is to deliver at Grace Church Sunday, but Rev. Clinton Swengel, the pastor, said it is certain to be a
"fresh and vital talk."

Rev. Swengel said he hoped members of the church and the congregation would be at the Sunday services to meet Dr. Dickey and added that as district superintendent, he probably would be close to the church for the next six years. He will be a frequent visitor and co-worker here.

Dr. Dickey has approximately 1 60 churches and circuits under his supervision as superintendent of the district that stretches from the Ohio River at Ripley north to Xenia and Jeffersonville. There are 20 districts in the state.
Dr. Dickey is a graduate of Ohio
Wesleyan University at Delaware and of Boston University's School of Theology. He and Rev. Swengel were students at Boston University together for a time.
Dr. Dickey and his family make their home in Wilmington. One son is a student at Ohio Wesleyan University and the other is in an elementary school. The only daughter is still too young to go to school.

Sales Tax in County
Shows Drop For Week

During the week ending Sept. 5, sales tax receipts in Fayette County were somewhat lower than for the same week a year ago, when they were $8,352.71. During the recent week they were $6,328.61.

All other counties in the area showed substantial gains for the week, the weekly report issued by Roger W. Tracey, state treasurer, discloses.
During week ending Sept. 5, sales tax in the state established a new all time record of $3,317,
888.52, compared with $2,702,875-35 a year ago. This represents a gain of $615,013.57.

Metal Mart Trend Studied By Business

Traditional Barometer
May Tell Future Of Industry In General

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Weakness in the metal markets—both present and foreshadowed—has businessmen watching this traditional barometer.

Some customers are taking to sidelines while they watch these developments:

Steel supply and demand is near balance. Production is off. And some in the industry see price cuts in some steel products as a coming possibility.

Zinc and lead producers and users are wondering how long the present neat balance in world supply and demand, with price stability, would survive an anticipated deal by the U.S. government to take Chile's 100,000 tons of unsold copper off her hands. If Chile should start pouring 30,000 tons a month into the world market again, copper prices might tumble.

Even aluminum, riding the crest of the big defense demand, may see a change in the picture early next year, some leaders in the industry say.

Cancellation of plane orders by the government—a large new one in plane engines has just been announced—will ease the demand for aluminum a little. At the same time the defense-inspired expansion of facilities is bringing new aluminum-making capacity into operation.

Businessmen watch the metals markets much the same way that stock traders watch their charts. When the stock averages dropped to a new low Monday, Wall Street called it confirmation of the bear market. At this late date they can now assert a bear market started in January.

Metal prices are often the last to turn down in the commodities field. In a sense, a break in the price of copper or steel would "confirm" a bear market in commodities—a down-trend that dealers in non-metal lines have witnessed for many months.

The price of lead slid off a half a cent to 13½ cents a pound Wednesday. Sellers said that consumers have stopped buying and supplies are backing up in producers' hands. At the same time there is a flood of scrap lead, mostly old auto batteries.

Features at the Theaters

Another MGM Technicolor musical is slated for the Fayette Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It will be the showing of "Latin Lovers" starring Lana Turner, Ricardo Montalban, John Lund, Louis Calhern and Jean Hagen.

The picture is a romantic affair with plenty of music and dances in Latin rhythm, background of Brazil and its polo-playing set and the laugh-studded story of a beautiful American girl who has a hard time finding out whether millions and matrimony will mix.

On the bill for Wednesday and Thursday will be the re-issue of "Call Of The Wild" with Clark Gable and Loretta Young in the leading roles.

The picture is based on one of the all-time great stories by Jack London. It is an outdoor drama, romance and blazing action which tells the tale of two-fisted men who gambled everything in their mad search for Klondike gold and of women who winked at danger.

"City of Bad Men," an unusual first in Technicolor Westerns, with the clashing action of outlaws revolving around the world's championship heavyweight clash between Bob Fitzsimmons and "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, comes Friday and Saturday.

Jeanne Crain and Dale Robertson co-star in the Twentieth Century-Fox drama set in Carson City during the gold fever days at the turn of the century.

Robertson, Richard Boone and Don Haggerty portray the leaders of three gangs of desperadoes who are drawn to Carson City by the lure of the money that the rich eastern fight fans are bringing into the town. In furtherance of a plan to make an enormous robbery, they even join together and allow themselves to be made deputies by the sheriff of the town.

Such notorious outlaws of all times, Brett Stanton, Johnny Ringo, Gar Stanton, Bob Thrall kill and Joe Mendoza, are portrayed in the movie.

OPENING AT THE State Theater Sunday will be a double-feature of "Abbott and Costello Meet Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and "Cruisin' Down The River." The two features will also be shown Monday and Tuesday.

In the first feature, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello star in another one of their hit comedies. Co-starring in the film is Boris Karloff, Helen Westcott, Craig Stevens and Reginald Denney.

Taking the spotlight in "Cruisin' Down The River" is Dick Haymes, Audrey Totter and Billy Daniels. The show is a delightful musical with several hit tunes.

Two thrillers are slated to be at the State Wednesday and Thursday. The first is "Calling Dr. Death" with Bela Lugosi.

The companion feature will be "Atomic Monster" starring Lon Chaney, Jr.

Three features are on the bill for Friday and Saturday. Sonny Tufts, Barbara Britton and Gabby Hayes star in the first, "The Untamed Breed."

Another western, "Down Laredo Way," will be the second feature starring Rex Allen, the Arizona cowboy, with his horse, Koko, miracle horse of the movies.

The last feature will be an episode from the serial, "Captain Marvel."

SLATED FOR THE CCC Drive Inn Theater Sunday and Monday is "Road To Bali" with cast of Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour, Myrvyn Vye, Peter Coe, Ralph Moody and Leon Askin.

The show is a Technicolor comedy with plenty of singing and dancing. The story deals with Bob and Bing cast as deep sea divers hunting for lost treasure.

"Big Jim McLain" will be the attraction for Tuesday and Wednesday. In the leading roles are John Wayne, Nancy Olson, James Arness, Alan Napier, Veda Ann Borg, Gayne Whitman, Hal Baylor and Hans Conried.

For Thursday night, the Technicolor adventure drama, "Dist a n t Drums," will be shown with Gary Cooper, Mari Aldon, Richard Webb, Arthur Hunnicutt, Ray Teal, Robert Barrat, Clancy Cooper and Lee Roberts.

A double-feature will be shown for Friday and Saturday. The first will be "The Raider" with Richard Conte, Viveca Lindfors, Barbara Britton, William Bishop, Hugh O'Brian, Morris Ankrum and Margaret Field.

The companion feature will be

Wiley Calls For New Pact In Far East

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), declaring "our job in the Far East has just begun," has called for a mutual defense arrangement with that area as soon as the nations of Southeast Asia are ready for it.

"We should use our great influence to help develop the concept of collective security in the Far East," said Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He said:

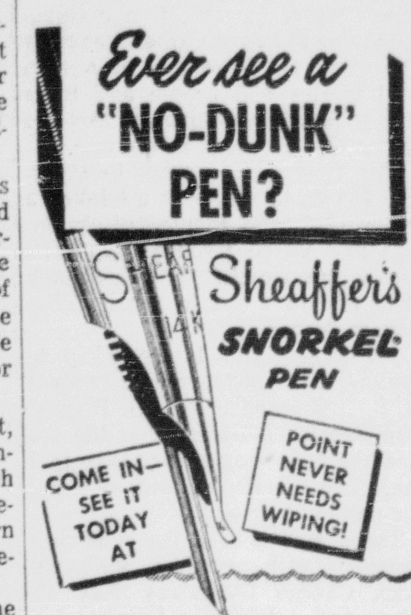

"Security in the Far East is every whit as important to world peace as security in Western Europe or Latin America. What we need to do as soon as countries of the Far East are ready to assume the obligations involved is to move ahead with a third great pact for the Far East."

In speaking of a "third" pact, Wiley referred to the North Atlantic and the Rio treaties, in which this country pledged its mutual security with the nations of Western Europe and this hemisphere, respectively. He also declared:

1. Russia is seeking to divide the Western Allies, and Americans should not help her by magnifying differences between the United States and Britain.

2. The Soviet world "is in the throes of an acute attack of totalitarian indigestion" whose "symptoms approach those of ptomaine poisoning," Wiley said that, if the free world does all it can to encourage this development, "the internal pains will continue to the point where the Soviet Union will be forced to disgorge her satellites and eventually revolution will break out within the mother country itself."

The Oatis Story—

Reporter Faces Grim Life In Jail

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final article in the series written by William N. Oatis, Associated Press foreign correspondent. In previous articles he has told how the Communists in Czechoslovakia arrested him, tried him as a spy and sentenced him to 10 years imprisonment.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
I spent more than 24 months, from the spring of 1951 to the spring of 1953, in Ruzyně Prison near Prague, Czechoslovakia. All that time I lived in a cell.

I was arrested while serving as an Associated Press foreign correspondent. I was accused of espionage, convicted and sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment. I got out in less time on a pardon.

In retrospect, the weeks and months seem to have gone by fast. That is because the prisoner remembers little that happened in them—because they were empty. This very emptiness makes each day itself seem to go by so slowly.

I used to wake, to the guard's reveille call, and think, "It is 16 hours till I can sleep again; how can I ever pass that time?" It was as if I had fallen to the bottom of a deep well and must swim upward and upward, holding my breath, to save my life.

In a cell a man lives while he is asleep; while he is awake, he only exists. In dreams he lives the life he cannot live in reality. I dreamed of buying newspapers, walking the streets, riding trains, eating in restaurants, talking with my wife and friends.

Time goes most slowly when the prisoner is alone in his cell, because then he has only his own mind to help him fight time, and his mind is likely to play him false and turn to his fate. If he has a cellmate, he has the strength of two in the fight, because he has another's resources as well as his own.

I was alone only about three months in Ruzyně. But I knew one man that had spent more than nine months in solitary confinement, and another that had been waiting more than two years for trial, alone or with a companion.

I had seven cellmates, one after another: two Czechs, two Moravians, a Slovak, a Slovakian Jew and an Austrian. They ranged in age from the 20s to the 60s—two mechanical engineers, a clerk, a priest, a policeman, an army officer and a politician.

The long day began with reveille around 5:30 a. m. and ended with taps around 9:30. In between, every incident, however routine, was a milestone; it meant that a certain amount of time was past, and the prisoner was that much nearer bedtime.

We dressed, folded our blankets, washed in cold water with coarse laundry soap and had breakfast. We waited for the mid-morning sandwich, given to the skinnier prisoners like me. It came, and we waited for the mid-afternoon sandwich. Then there was supper, and then there were three hours to bedtime.

A meal was always a notable event. It meant time was past, and we listened eagerly for the sounds that told us that inmates from a nearby labor camp were shuffling down our hall, setting food outside each door.

There was always the fascinating question of what was coming for lunch.

Each mealtime, a guard opened the cell door so we could take the food in. Each inmate got a small double boiler full, with liquid below and solid above.

Breakfast was always a chunk of coarse rye bread with a coffee substitute, probably made from roasted grain. Lunch included soup, usually excellent, and mashed potatoes with gravy, spinach, cabbage sauerkraut or carrots on top, or else heavy Czech dumplings with gravy. Supper might be potatoes, rice or boiled pearled barley, this last a tasteless dish that many prisoners flushed down the toilet.

A time or two during the week we got bits of canned meat parts of the animal that should have been thrown away—in our gravy. There was an honest-to-goodness slice of meat on Sundays or holidays. Sometimes it was good roast pork, sometimes tough, dry boiled beef. Now and then we got fresh lettuce, often with a dividend of sand. The food was not elegant, but it was usually tasty and filling.

Between meals, we found a few things to pass the time. From my cellmates, I learned a little Czech and Slovak and a few words of Russian, Hungarian, Hebrew and Arabic. I spoke rudimentary French with the priest, and taught him English.

We sang songs in several languages. The politician taught me "Dark Eyes" in Russian, and I taught him "Dinah," "Me and My Shadow" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" in English.

We played questions-and-answers. We drew a chess-and-a-checker board on toilet paper and kneaded figures out of rye bread, which is as hard as rock when it has dried. (The priest colored the "red" chessmen with toothpaste.) That gave us two more games to play.

We got books in Czech and Slovak, at the rate of one or two a week, from the prison library. They were mostly propaganda novels.

I got three parcels of books in English—from my wife, from the U. S. Embassy and from The AP—novels, plays, poetry and writings on music and science. And I got some Soviet publications in English—Gorki, Dickens, Howard Fast and some propaganda magazines—from my referment. So we had something to read.

In January, 1952, I started writing songs—one-voice melodies with words—on toilet paper. Before I got out, I wrote more than 400 songs, three verses and numerous skits. (Don't look for any of these at your music store.)

We looked forward to the scheduled events of each week: The buying of cigarettes, candy, cookies and fruit from a prison officer who took orders at the cell door and delivered the goods a few days later.

the arrival of clean unbleached muslin underwear from the prison laundry (We got a change of our tan burlap uniforms only when they began showing dirt or holes.)

There were shower baths about every two weeks, trips to the doctor's or dentist's office as needed. (The dentist filled numerous cavities in my teeth. The doctor put me in the prison hospital with what was diagnosed as tuberculosis.)

There were, on rare occasions, walks in the prison courtyard. And there were, for me, five automobile trips to Prague, when I eagerly drank in all the sights of streets and houses and people and trees and grass and sunshine and sky and space that I missed in my cell.

The first time, I went to Pankrac Prison to testify at a trial of a group of Czechs accused of espionage and linked through a devious web with my case. The police made it clear how I was to testify. That was in March, 1952.

Six weeks later I was taken to the downtown police station to meet U. S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs. (Only then did I learn that the police had been wrong when they told me, "The American Embassy is doing nothing for you.")

There was a visit the following October with another embassy man, Charge D'Affaires Nat P. King, and a trip to a hospital for a physical examination some five months after that. I had a second visit with King only two days before my release. (Neither of us knew then that I was about to be freed.)

Incidents like that were rare breaks in the monotony. In the cell there always came a time when we ran out of things to do, and there we were again, pacing the floor and waiting for bedtime.

There was a rule, probably intended to prevent suicides, that every prisoner, unless specifically excused from doing so, must sleep with his hands outside his blankets. (As a frail-looking foreigner trusted not to do himself in, I got an excuse.)

A few of the guards, especially the younger and newer ones, enforced this to the letter. While a prisoner sleeps, he is likely to pull his hands under the covers almost by habit. And when my cellmate did so, such guards banged on the door, "Hands outside the blankets!"

And then we were both awake, and back in prison. And then we went back to sleep, and pretty soon again we heard the same cry, at our own door or somewhere down the hall. On nights like that, nobody slept right.

Through every night, the electric light burned overhead. Every few minutes a guard looked through a peephole in the door.

If he was the right kind of guard we slept in spite of all that. But always there came the dawn, and there was another day to get through—16 hours—960 minutes—57,600 seconds. That way, I struggled through two years.

Shortly before midnight May 15, 1953, a guard awoke me and took me before a secret police officer. The officer told me that President Antonin Zapotocky, acting on a letter from my wife in St. Paul, Minn., had forgiven the rest of my sentence. The next morning at 9:30, I left the prison for the last time. And less than six hours later an American Embassy car carried me out of Czechoslovakia.

Hoosier Admits Slaying Trucker

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Charles E. Roberts, 25-year-old Fort Wayne factory worker, was charged yesterday with first degree murder in the death of Dale R. Young, 27, a Barbenton, Ohio, truck driver.

Police said Roberts confessed shooting Young Aug. 21 after the truck driver asked him directions and he sent him on an aimless circle in Fort Wayne. They said Young became angry and pushed Roberts's car. Then, they said, Roberts shot him.

Shell Kills Lads

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Giuseppe Napolitano, 8, and his brother Domenico, 2, became casualties of World War II yesterday. They were killed when an artillery shell they found in a field exploded.

Britain Slashes Interest Rates

LONDON (AP)—Britain today slashed the government bank rate by one half per cent today in a sudden move paving the way for cheaper, more plentiful sterling.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler, master mind of Britain's economy, reduced the rate from 4 to 3½ per cent.

The bank rate is the interest figure at which the nationalized Bank of England lends money.

Piketon Mayor Cited In Finding

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Ohio bureau of inspection report yesterday returned a finding of $2,802 against Mayor Mitchell Osborn of Piketon for failure to turn over to the state one half of highway patrol fines collected from May 10, 1949 to March 17, 1953.

The report stated Osborn paid the finding plus $150 interest on May 7, 1953. The report found also an "illegal expenditure" of $2,886 for street repairs without advertising for bids.

The smallest car sold in Italy is called "Topolino"—little mouse.

Hospital Sought

COLUMBUS (AP)—Guernsey County wants a $1,150,000 state tuberculosis hospital slated by the Legislature for Southern Ohio. Dr. John D. Porterfield, Ohio's health director, said Washington, Gallia, Lawrence and Athens counties also have extended feelers to the health department.

There are two theories about the origin of oil, one that it was formed from plants and the other that it was formed from inorganic materials.

Band Uniform Fund Is Nearing $6,000 Goal Now

Report Is Made By Team Leaders On Contributions

There was exuberant optimism among the band uniform campaigners after Thursday evening's meeting at the Washington Hotel when the captains of the soliciting teams made their reports on progress that had been made since the start Monday.

Confidence was expressed both during the meeting and after it that the goal of $6,000 the committee had set to outfit the Washington C. H. High School Varsity band completely with new uniforms would be reached.

However, it was apparent that the optimists were counting on the contributions they hope will be made between now and Monday evening when the final accounting is to be made at another meeting at the Country Club.

Reports of the ten team captains at Thursday night's meeting showed a little more than $3,800 already in. Besides there were known to be several sizeable contributions, some of them for enough to buy as many as half a dozen full uniforms, had been pledged by organizations and individuals.

WALTER PATTON, the campaign director, said after the meeting those who want to give to the fund could get in touch with him or Mrs. Frank Brown if they are not called on by a solicitor. In the reports at the meeting, several said they had been asked by a number of people not on the list of prospective contributors to whom they could make their donations.

When the campaign started Monday, each of the solicitors was given some of the approximately 400 names of prospective donors.

Reporting by teams the contributions listed Thursday night were: team headed by Mrs. M. Grove Davis $116; by Mrs. Vada Moats $225; Mrs. Charles Hurt $301; Mrs. Andrew Loudner $237 and Mrs. Hugh Perrill $708 in the women's division and by Bob Helfrich $349; by Albert Bryant $603; by Billie Wilson $75; by Ed Kreider $240 and by Kenneth Chaney $275 in the men's division.

Mrs. Richard Waters heads the women's division and H. F. Schlue the men's division.

Already in the fund from other sources was about $840.

It has been estimated that each complete uniform will cost around $60 and there are more than 100 boys and girls in the Varsity.

It has been emphasized that there will be no change in either color or style of the uniforms. Many of those now being worn have been in service since their present wearers started to school. But there are some still in fairly good condition; these are the uniforms that have been bought from time to time to replace some that have had to be discarded. Nearly all of them have been altered to fit many times.

Staunton PTO To Give Meat For Lunches

Members of the Staunton Parent-Teacher Organization took steps at their meeting Thursday night to assure the school lunches a little something extra when they decided that the parents would donate meat once a week to supplement the regular menu.

Lunches cost 25 cents each and although the menus are made up to provide a balanced diet, the parents figured a little extra meat once a week would make them better. The plan for making the donations on a regular schedule is to be worked out.

This was the first meeting of the year for the PTO at Staunton and one of the highlights was the get-together of the parents and teachers for informal talks before and after the business meeting.

It started with a wiener and marshmallow roast around a fire in the school yard, then moved into the basement of the school where Wilbur Chrisman, the president, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Ottie Smith was named chairman of the committee that is to serve lunch at the Emerson Marting Hereford sale Nov. 13.

AFTER considerable discussion, the PTO voted to hold a Halloween Carnival in the school basement Oct. 29. David Haines was named the general chairman.

The PTO considered undertaking a project of rebuilding and painting some of the shelving in the kitchen and cafeteria, but left the final decision in the hands of a committee. There was a possibility that some new equipment might be purchased instead.

President Chrisman, on behalf of the PTO extended a hearty welcome to the teachers—Travis Turvey, the principal, Mrs. Edith Brown and Mrs. Marion Riley—the cook, Mrs. Margery Wilson and the custodian, Cecil Hill.

Other officers of the PTO are Paul Dean, vice president, and Alice Browder, secretary-treasurer.

35 Are Examined At TB Clinic Here

Examinations were given to 35 individuals at Thursday's bi-monthly clinic at the Fayette County Health Department.

Dr. Damon Wetteraurer, head of the Mt. Logan Sanatorium, came here to conduct the clinic with the help of the nursing staff of the department.

Although the clinic is designed primarily to check tuberculosis, the examinations also frequently turn up symptoms of several other ailments, it was said. These are noted in the reports, also, it was explained.

Those who were given examinations were referred to the clinic by the physicians of the community. Reports of the examinations will be made to the physicians who referred the cases. Copies of the reports also are kept in the Health Department files.

It was explained that in cases in which the examinations warrant, the physicians and the Health Department follow up with recommendations for treatment.

Maximum Rates Of Speed Pointed Out

Police Chief Valden Long calls attention to the state law which regulates the speed of motor vehicles in cities.

The maximum rate of speed on all federal and state routes through towns and cities is 35 miles an hour.

On all other streets the maximum rate is 25 miles per hour.

More careful observance of the speed regulations is urged, inasmuch as drives against excessive speed are underway in nearly all municipalities, many of which are using electric clocks to record speed.
